

Health, Safety and Environmental Coordinator

We have a part/flex time career opportunity for a Health, Safety & Environmental Coordinator, responsible for the day-to-day execution of Aspen's health, safety and environmental programs and ensuring compliance to Aspen's standards. Every day the expert team at Aspen Custom Trailers takes on some of the biggest heavy haul design and manufacturing challenges in North America. With more than 100 employees, Aspen rides the leading edge of heavy haul design and is widely recognized as one of the industry's most innovative manufacturers.

Working directly for Aspen's Vice President, you will work with our Team Leaders on a daily basis to ensure health, safety and environmental compliance through training, communication and when necessary disciplinary action. You are Aspen's liaison with all Health, Safety and Environmental agencies and are responsible for ensuring Aspen is meeting all requirements. This is not an office job – you will be out in the production facility, conducting assessments, communicating with employees and looking for potential hazards.

Your degree or diploma in health and safety and more than 3 years' experience working in a similar role, bring an in-depth understanding of all things related to health, safety and environmental. Your exceptional communication, interpersonal, training and leadership skills set you apart from others in this field. You are equally comfortable leading a training session for more than 100 people and working alone in your office keeping Aspen's records accurate and up-to-date.

Aspen Trailers offers great benefits, leading training programs, and competitive salaries. This growing business looks for people with energy, drive and passion to contribute to the team. If the idea of working with a growing operations department in this role excites, please send your resume with a cover letter for our consideration.
